INSTRUCTIONS

Include all full-time, degree-credit undergraduate students who transferred into your institution for the fall 2005 term from a degree-granting institution. Students should be reported on the appropriate lines according to the type of institution from which they transferred. Count each student only once, classified by the last institution attended. Transfer students from two-year institutions are to be further classified by whether or not they held a degree at the time of transfer. A list of current New York State degree-granting institutions by sector and level of instruction begins on page 6.

Report students entering your institution at the lower division level in column 1 and those entering at the upper division level in column 2. For each line with data, sum columns 1 and 2 and enter the total in column 3.

Report students in the level in which they are entering, lower or upper division, regardless of the level of degree they may have received previously. For example, a student with a bachelor's degree pursuing a second degree in an associate degree program should be reported as lower division.

NOTE FOR NURSING SCHOOLS: Nursing schools should not count students transferring to their institutions from nondegree-granting nursing schools as transfers, even though they enter with advanced standing. These students should be considered first-time students unless they had previously attended a degree-granting institution.

DEFINITIONS

1. Undergraduate

- a. Lower Division: Includes freshmen and sophomores in bachelor's degree programs, students in any associate degree programs and students in terminal occupational programs of one, two or three years that result in a certificate or diploma. For purposes of this report, lower division includes nonmatriculated undergraduates transferring credits comparable to a freshman or sophomore.
  - b. Upper Division: Includes students who have completed the sophomore year and typically are enrolled in a four- or five-year bachelor's degree program. For purposes of this report, upper division includes nonmatriculated undergraduates transferring credits comparable to a junior or senior.
2. Transfer: A student who terminates enrollment (with or without a degree) in one degree-granting institution and subsequently enrolls in another, usually with advanced standing credits. Do not include as "transfer students" those students previously enrolled as nonmatriculated students in your institution, who have become matriculated students.
3. Full-time: Students whose academic load-coursework or other required activity is at least 75% of the normal full-time load. For students on a semester calendar system, undergraduate students must carry at least 12 credit hours to be considered full-time. For students taking remedial coursework, include equated credits for remedial coursework when determining the full-time/part-time status.
